BACKGROUND

For many South Dakotas, healthcare begins with EMS, transitioning from EMS through tertiary care. The current mission of the Department is to “promote, protect, and improve the health and well-being of all South Dakotans”. Often times, local ambulance services initiate entry into the healthcare system by providing a valuable service to the citizens of South Dakota.

EMS is a vital component of the healthcare system in South Dakota. Out-of-hospital emergency medical services are provided by 123 local ground ambulance service agencies scattered across the state. These independent agencies and their personnel are licensed, certified and regulated by the state. In recent years, many of South Dakota’s rural EMS agencies have faced challenges related to staffing, increasing demands and changes in rural socioeconomics, demographics and healthcare.

In January, Governor Dugaard filed Executive Reorganization Order No. 2015-01 which moved the Office of Emergency Medical Services (EMS) from the Department of Public Safety to the Department of Health. In order to begin to address challenges being faced by the EMS industry, the Department of Health formed a stakeholders’ workgroup to study the current EMS system. This workgroup consisted of representatives from the EMS industry, state legislature, related associations, hospitals, local government, etc. The group met four times over the course of the summer of 2015 with the following goal:

To provide recommendations to the Department of Health on EMS sustainability and ensuring access to quality EMS in South Dakota, particularly in rural South Dakota, by identifying key issues and suggesting strategies.

The group’s final recommendations were categorized into four main topic areas: Workforce, Quality, Sustainability, and Infrastructure.

1. WORKFORCE

One of the most pressing issues facing the EMS industry today is sustaining a qualified workforce. In South Dakota, nearly 85% of EMS personnel are volunteer in nature. Similarly, seventy five percent of EMS agencies also operate in this manner. Recommendations recognize the need to assist EMS in recruiting and retaining workforce.

Recommendation A: Change the minimum staffing requirement for an ambulance from two EMTs to one EMT and a driver and eliminate the hardship exemption.

A driver must have a valid South Dakota driver license and within one year* complete the state-approved EVOC course and healthcare provider CPR training and demonstrate competency in:

- HIPAA awareness;
- Infection control;
- Patient movement; and
- Equipment and communication systems knowledge.

**Timeframe warrants additional discussion.*

3. SUSTAINABILITY

Ambulance services across South Dakota are facing a variety of challenges ranging from recruitment and retention of staff, funding, leadership, etc. In an effort to assist services in addressing these issues, the stakeholders recommended the following:

Recommendation A: Develop the capacity to provide communities with assistance in transitioning from unsustainable to sustainable EMS models. This assistance should include:

- Assessing sustainability;
- Evaluating the full costs of providing EMS;
- Exploring various EMS delivery models that may fit the community's unique needs, desires and resources;
- Facilitating community discussions around matching needs with resources; and
- Guiding and coaching through the transitional process.
